

AMENDMENTS TO THE CLAIMS:

Claim 1 (original): An improved structure of a heater for an outdoor table having a base seat mounted with an isolation plate, a pair of semi-stacking male tubes with multiple corners and a screw nut with a circular press plate at ~~[[the]]~~ a top end thereof, and ~~[[the]]~~ two ends of the isolation plate are connected to ~~[[the]]~~ a bottom inner edge of the base seat for securing and ~~[[the]]~~ a center of the isolation plate is provided with a recessed sunken seat which is engageable with the multiple corners of the male tubes, and ~~[[the]]~~ a center of the sunken seat is provided with a through hole for mounting with ~~a pair of~~ the semi-stacking male tubes and ~~[[the]]~~ an external diameter of the male tubes is smaller than an umbrella hole on the table surface, and is engageable with ~~[[a]]~~ the screw nut, thereby when the base seat is placed on the table, the male ~~tube is~~ male tubes are inserted into the umbrella hole and the screw nut is mounted to the male ~~[[tube]]~~ tubes from ~~[[the]]~~ a bottom of the table and ~~[[the]]~~ a bottom edge of the base seat and the circular press plate clip ~~[[the]]~~ an edged wall of the umbrella hole so that the heater is secured to the table.

Claim 2 (currently amended): The heater for an outdoor table of Claim 1, wherein ~~[[the]]~~ surrounding of the screw nut is radially mounted with a plurality of rotating plates.

Claim 3 (currently amended): The heater for an outdoor table of Claim 1, wherein a through hole is provided to ~~[[the]]~~ surrounding portion of the screw nut ~~at appropriate position thereof~~.

Claim 4 (currently amended): The heater for an outdoor table of Claim 1, wherein ~~[[the]]~~ surrounding portion of the base seat is provided with an opening which is covered with a fastening cap.